

Stonegate Golf Outing

Live scoring, GPS course map and leaderboard — on your phone

The Trophy Club
Lebanon, Indiana
18 holes · Par 72

Everything runs in your web browser. There is no app to download, no account to create and no password to remember. Your captain has a private link for your foursome — open it once and your phone remembers your team for the rest of the day.

Getting started

1 Open your team's link

Your captain will text it to you. It looks like `jnssolutions.ai/golf/?code=CEDAR-EAGLE-472` — the code is what signs you in, so there is nothing else to enter.

2 Add it to your home screen

Tap Add to home screen in the app and follow the three steps it shows you. It then opens full screen, like any other app. On an iPhone this only works in Safari — if you tapped the link from a text, choose Open in Safari first.

3 Do this before you leave the house

Phone signal at the course is patchy. Opening the app once on good wifi means the course map and scorecard are already stored on your phone when you get there.

4 Check you're on the right team

Tap My team from the $\dots$ menu. You should see your foursome and your starting hole — the outing is a shotgun start, so most teams do not begin on hole 1.

NO LINK? SCAN THIS AND TYPE YOUR CODE

`jnssolutions.ai/golf/`

Your code is three parts — two words and three digits. Capitals, spaces and dashes don't matter, so `cedar eagle 472` works just as well as `CEDAR-EAGLE-472`.

Our team code: _____

One code per foursome. All four of you use the same one, and all four can enter scores — it's a scramble, so the team records a single score per hole. If two of you enter the same hole, the most recent entry is the one that sticks.

Good to know

One phone is enough

You don't all need it open. One person keeping the card works fine — and if two of you do have it open, you'll both see the same running total.

Watch the battery

The GPS distance reading is the hungry part. Leave it off unless you're using it, and start the round with a full charge.

Nothing to sign up for

No account to make, no password, no email address — the team code is the whole login. Lose your phone and you lose nothing: open the link on another one.

Using the app

Four buttons along the bottom — that's the whole thing

What each screen does

Score

Tap + or – to set your team's score for the hole, then use the arrows to move between holes. It saves by itself — there is no save button. The line underneath tells you where it stands: Saved, or Queued if you have no signal.

Course

An aerial map of every hole with the playing line, distances between points, and par and stroke index. Tap the GPS button top-right to see your live distance to the middle of the green.

Leaderboard

Live standings for every team, updating on their own. Switch between overall, front nine and back nine.

Messages

Announcements from the organizers, and a direct line to ask them anything. Find it via the speech-bubble icon at the top right.

Out of signal

The course has dead spots, and the app is built for them. Scores you enter without signal are held on your phone and sent automatically when you get a bar back — nothing to re-enter, and you can keep scoring in the meantime. The badge says Queued until it goes through. The course map works offline too.

If something goes wrong

I lost the link

Go to jnssolutions.ai/golf/ and enter your team code by hand. Ask your captain or an organizer if you don't have it.

It says my code isn't found

Check it against the card — 0 and 0 are easy to mix up. An organizer may also have reissued it; ask for the current one.

I'm on the wrong team

Open your own team's link again. The phone switches to whichever code it was last given.

A score is wrong

Go back to that hole and change it — any hole, any time. Organizers can correct it too.

Distances look off

GPS needs permission and a clear sky. It measures to the centre of the green, not the pin, so treat it as a guide.

I can't add it to my home screen

On an iPhone only Safari can. Opened it from Messages? Tap Open in Safari first.

Nothing is loading

You're probably in a dead spot. The leaderboard needs signal; scoring does not.

Something urgent? Messages are read when an organizer is at the scoring table, which is not all the time. For anything that can't wait, call the clubhouse on (765) 482-7272 or find an organizer.
